By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

"Let your own discretion be your tutor; suit the action to the word, the word to the action; with this special observance, that you o'erstep not the modesty of nature."

"Prompt sense of equity! To thee belongs the swift redress of unexamined wrongs."

The United States Golf Association, with "prompt sense of equity," brushes aside the District of Columbia Golf Association's petty persecution of George Voigt and declares his amateur fame unassailable, with that "swift redress of unexamined wrongs" which is the watchword of clean American sport.

The suspicion that President Coolidge is merely trying to humbug the American people by a piece of cheap trickery has revealed an astonishingly large number of people who could never have thought of it if they hadn't been capable of it themselves.

Now that Leading Eagle is a full-fledged Sioux, doubtless there will be an increasing tendency in some quarters to explain that he is an Indian-giver.

The disclosure that our old hero, Deadwood Dick, last of the bad men of the old frontier, is the caretaker of a tourist camp at $40 a month, makes every dime novel we have ever read turn to ashes in our mouth. Let us hope we shall never hear that Huckleberry Finn is driving a milk wagon in St. Louis.

The Nevada law requiring a residence of only three months before a divorce can be obtained is held constitutional, but some people will never be satisfied until they can get one within the cramped limits of the two weeks' vacation.

The Government which they so venomously assail permits Sacco and Vanzetti to issue from their prison as inflammatory a proclamation as has ever been published in this country, calling upon anarchy to avenge them.

The collapse of the Geneva conference leaves the fate of our national defense in the hands of the cheepers in Congress, a circumstance which the British statesmen doubtless did not fail to note.

Hollywood beauty parlor expert explodes the well-known theory that our movie queens owe their loveliness to the gymnasium, but what of it? As Robert Herrick says: "No fault in women, to lay on the tincture of vermilion; And there to give the cheek a die Of white, where nature doth deny."

Just why Gov. Fuller's refusal of clemency to Sacco and Vanzetti should cause German radicals to march through Berlin bearing banners labeled: "Hands Off China!" is a mystery that doubtless can be readily cleared up by the experts who have lately been devoting themselves to the analysis of Mr. Coolidge's vocabulary.

The American people will now look forward with what patience may be mustered to the time when we can scrap the Washington conference treaties and build the kind of a navy we choose and not the kind of a navy Great Britain chooses us to choose. It is a wise man who does his own choosing.

Inasmuch as Mr. Coolidge could have won in a walk why so much excitement over his refusal to run? "His speech was a fine sample, on the whole, Of rhetoric, which the learn'd call rigmorale."

The old-fashioned Congressman who used to say to the interviewers: "Boys, don't quote me in no bad English," is sitting pretty—Chicago jury of authors and editors puts the stamp of approval on nearly all the slipshod English.

Still, here's bad news for all the rest of the candidates—they "put the ban," as the copy desk would say, on "none of them are here," "it is me," and "try and get it."

As a matter of fact "try, and get it" is a pretty good slogan for any gentleman about to throw his hat into the ring.

Henry Ford joins Gov. Brewster on the Hoover bandwagon, and it looks as though seats would soon be scarce on all of them.

"Be thou the first true merit to befriend; His praise is lost, who stays till all commend."

And there's another line of Pope's that rather fits the envious position of Gen. Dawes, spared 'the brunt of a favorite campaign in Illinois, but with a tremendous second-choice strength:

"Nor Fame I slight, nor for her favors call; She comes unlooked for, if she comes at all."

NAVAL PARLEY ENDS IN CLASH OF VIEWS, BUT FRIENDLY WORDS

Tone of Leaders Takes Off Edge of Failure to Agree.

DELEGATES SEE HOPE FOR AUXILIARY PACT

Gibson, American, Is Praised Officially and Personally by Other Chiefs.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—War between Great Britain, the United States and Japan is unthinkable, declared Hugh Gibson, America's chief representative, at the closing session of the tripartite naval conference today. Hence there is no reason, he added, why an agreement, which has not been obtained at Geneva, should not be reached shortly as the result of direct negotiations between the governments for a reconciliation of the divergent views.

The burial ceremony of the conference, held in the presence of a large assemblage, was carried out without the employment of words of recrimination and, as W. C. Bridgeman, head of the British delegation, said: "We are not dispersing in a spirit of bitterness or despair."

When the conference adjourned, the tone of the adoption of a joint declaration suggesting direct negotiations between the governments, Mr. Bridgeman walked up the stairs of the Hotel Des Bergues, in whose ballroom the last act of the naval drama was played, to the private office of Mr. Gibson and shook his American colleague warmly by the hand. This was hailed as an indication that the first lord of the British admiralty believed the differences between the United States and Great Britain, manifested at the conference, were nothing more serious than a slight friction.

No rupture, says Saito.

Admiral Saito, distinguished member of the Japanese delegation, joining in the thought of Mr. Gibson and Mr. Bridgeman, declared in a valetudinary address that he for one declined to view the results of the conference as a rupture of negotiations. He was convinced, he affirmed vigorously, that in some form or another, attempts to limit extravagance and competition in naval building, already limited in practice by common sense, will continue and eventually succeed.

The joint declaration, adoption of which involves automatic adjustment of the conference, represents an effort to summarize the viewpoints of the three delegations on the matters on which they agreed and on those on which they disagreed. The declaration shows that the conference was wrecked on two points—First, that of total tonnage limitation for cruisers, on which the British and the Americans were unable to attain an accord; second, on the problem of so-called eight-inch gun cruisers.

The declaration emphasizes that the British, while proposing a limitation of the size of warships of all classes, opposed the principle of limitation by total tonnage alone. This opposition was based on the ground that the largest ship and the heaviest gun permitted by the treaty would be the same.

FLOGGER, CONVICTED, GETS 10-YEAR TERM

Reputed Klan Head Fined $50 for Street Speech on Trial.

Oneonta, Ala., Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Eugene Doss was found guilty of assault and battery and kidnapping by a jury today in connection with the flogging of Jeff Calloway, farm youth, several weeks ago. Trial was immediately begun of L. A. Clayton, another of the seven men indicted in the whipping Calloway.

Dr. L. S. Fennell, reputed Tarrant City Klan head and one of the men under indictment, was fined $50 for contempt of court, because of a street corner speech last night, in which he told a group of persons that two Birmingham newspapers were responsible for his indictment, because of investigations they made into the floggings.

Fennell, a witness in the Doss trial, had been cautioned by Judge O. A. Steele to say nothing about the case in public. Doss was sentenced to eight to ten years in the State penitentiary.

Dark-Glass Bandit Caught in Cleveland

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Joe (Smoked Glasses) Russell, for whom Cleveland police had been conducting a nation-wide search was captured at a rooming house on Cedar avenue here late today.

Russell first was wanted by Cleveland police following a series of robberies of grocery stores and filling stations. At each hold-up he wore smoked glasses, which gave him the name of the "smoked glasses bandit." After many days search for him he was captured by detectives, but on being taken to a suburb for identification he complained of the handcuffs hurting his hands. Detectives unlocked one of the cuffs. He overpowered his guard and escaped.

ARMS PARLEY CONCLUSION CAUSE OF SATISFACTION

American Delegation Believed Justified in Refusing Surrender of Rights.

HOPE FOR FUTURE SEEN

By ALBERT W. FOX.

As predicted in The Post from the start, the Geneva conference to limit naval armaments has collapsed and ended in failure. The failure is complete and in many quarters there is a feeling of genuine and patriotic satisfaction that the American delegation, under the guidance of President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg, has refused to jeopardize America's national defense for the sake of procuring an agreement.

Statements yesterday by Secretary Kellogg and Hugh S. Gibson, chief American delegate, to the effect that a basis of agreement may later be found are regarded here as the usual diplomatic expressions of hope designed to take the sharp edge off the announced disagreement.

Both Mr. Kellogg and Mr. Gibson lay the blame for failure at the door of Great Britain and the latter's statement at yesterday's final session of the conference particularizes in this respect without sugar-coating the issues. The fact that both Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg went over the Gibson statement and added suggestions of their own gives it added weight as an accurate expression of the United States Government's position.

There is, however, no attempt on the part of the United States to allow recrimination or ill-feeling to creep into its summarization of the British attitude. The American statements, despite their frankness, breathe an air of conciliation into the hopeless negotiations and translate the collapse into an amicable agreement to disagree.

Throughout the American statements there is reflected the outstanding reason for the failure of the conference, namely, the refusal of Great Britain to make any sacrifice which in her eyes might directly or indirectly jeopardize her naval defenses in the future. America, as Secretary Kellogg points out, scrapped 780,000 tons of capital ships and "made greater sacrifices than any other country" to procure the agreement.

Bridge Falls, 25 Die In Swollen Stream

Mexico City, August 4 (A.P.)—Twenty-five persons, gathered on a bridge to watch the swollen waters of the Cotepec River after a cloudburst near San Miguel, were drowned as the bridge collapsed yesterday, say special dispatches from Zitacuaro, state of Michoacan.

Owens Valley Banks Close; Blame Fight Over Water

Failure of Ranchers to Negotiate Sales to Los Angeles and Loss of Business in Region Declared Direct Cause.

Bishop, Calif., Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Every bank in Owens Valley, five in number, closed its doors to business today. Notes posted on the doors and signed by the president and cashier of all institutions said the action was due to the "destructive work carried on by Los Angeles City" in its water war with valley ranchers.

The banks are the First National Bank of Bishop and four branches of the First County Bank, located respectively at Bishop, Big Pine, Independence and Lone Pine. The last four are State banks.

The notes were signed by W. W. Watterson and M. Q. Watterson, brothers. The former is president of all four of the State banks and cashier of the National Bank, while the latter is cashier of the four State banks and president of the National Bank. Will C. Wood, State superintendent of banks, arrived here at noon today and is supposed, though his visit was unheralded, to have come personally to take charge of the financial crisis.

W. W. Watterson said the direct cause of the banks' failures was that ranchers who have "failed to negotiate satisfactory sales to Los Angeles City" as well as business houses whose business had fallen off since the water war became intensive a few years ago, had been unable to liquidate their loans.

FIGHT OF VANZETTI AND SACCO GOES ON WITH NEW COUNSEL

Lawyer Is Silent on Hint He Will Appeal to U. S. Tribunal.

DOOMED PAIR BRAND GOVERNOR MURDERER

Both Men Again Refuse All Food; Guards Placed Over State Officials.

Boston, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Although Gov. Fuller has refused to extend executive clemency to Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, principals in a famous murder trial, the long battle to save the lives of the two men has not ended.

Today while the minutes of the last week of life for the condemned men ticked away, it became known that the attorneys who had fought their case before the State Supreme Court and the governor had retired, and that new counsel had been retained to take any further legal steps possible to avoid the electric chair.

Arthur D. Hill, Boston lawyer, who formerly was associated with Fred Moore, of California, in the Sacco-Vanzetti defense, was selected as the new attorney. He refused to discuss reports that the United States Supreme Court or the United States Supreme Court would be approached in an effort to stay the hand of the executioner.

"I have been consulted with a view to seeing what steps of a legal nature, if any, can be taken in the circumstances," he said. "It is not possible at this time to make any further statement."

Reason for Change.

The retirement of William G. Thompson and Herbert Ehrmann, who have had charge of the defense in the proceedings before the Supreme Court looking to a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti, was based on the ground that new counsel would be "untrammeled by the commitments of the past and less disturbed than we by a sense of injustice."

In a long statement issued late today the retiring counsel criticized the secrecy with which Gov. Fuller conducted his personal investigation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case and referred to the fact that the decision of the advisory committee named by the governor to conduct an independent investigation had not been made public.

While their friends were studying new means of averting their death sentence, now set for August 10, Sacco and Vanzetti, in the death house at the Charlestown State Prison, heard with little show of emotion the news that

Girl Missing, Bogus Marriage Alleged

Prague, Czechoslovakia, August 4 (A.P.)—Detectives are seeking to unravel the mystery of the disappearance of an American girl, Margit Voerdsmar, of New York. John Michalko, prominent in Czechoslovak political circles, and his friend and physician, Dr. Klepetar, have been arrested on suspicion of murdering her.

It is alleged by the police that Michalko went through a bogus form of marriage with Miss Voerdsmar last year, after which she, Michalko and Klepetar left for Paris, saying they were going to America. Since then, according to authorities, nothing has been heard of her, although Michalko and Klepetar subsequently returned to Prague.

VOIGT IS ACQUITTED AS U.S.G.A. REBUFS CAPITAL GOLF BODY

Bannockburn Golfer Is Declared Eligible for Tourney.

HIS AMATEUR STATUS UPHELD BY DECISION

Unbiased Ruling Clears District Star of Charges of Being "Detriment to Game."

The United States Golf Association refused to accept the word of the District of Columbia Golf Association's eligibility committee, openly rebuffing the local body yesterday and clearing George Voigt, Washington golfer, of all charges of violating the amateur code. Voigt was declared eligible to compete in the national amateur tournament at Minneapolis, starting August 23.

The United States Golf Association, through Herbert H. Ramsey, secretary of its executive committee, announced to the Associated Press in New York its decision rebuffing Voigt.

Thus a controversy which has stirred the golfing world for weeks ends in a complete victory for Voigt over the newly and specially-formed eligibility committee of the District Association, which undertook to oust him from amateur ranks and carried the case to golf's national controlling body in an effort to achieve that end.

Voigt Completely Absolved.

Weighing the word of the District committee against the testimony of Voigt, the United States Golf Association after a thorough investigation of the circumstances of the case not only cleared Voigt of the stigma of the charges, but in a sweeping and all-embracing statement declared that he had not been guilty of "conduct detrimental to the best interest and spirit of the game," as charged.

Arrayed against Voigt in an effort to force him out of amateur ranks, virtually branding him as a professional, were many of Washington's prominent golf devotees, members of wealthy and influential clubs, who first agitated the charges preferred

OBREGON'S CHIAPAS CAMPAIGN HEAD SHOT

Nogales, Ariz., August 4 (A.P.)—Aureliano Rabelo, manager of Gen. Alvaro Obregon's presidential campaign in the state of Chiapas, was shot to death in a political row at Juarez, Chiapas, Mexico, said a dispatch to the Herald today.

Excitement was reported running high in Chiapas following the first killing in the race for chief executive of the republic.

Details received here were meager, and the name of the assassin was not given, but it was intimated that Rabelo was shot down after an argument over recent speeches made in connection with the forthcoming election. Chiapas is listed as a state in which there is little support for Gen. Obregon. The state is recorded as heavily supporting Gen. Francisco Serrano for the presidency.

G. O. P. POLITICIANS FIND WEALTH OF CANDIDATES AFTER COOLIDGE EDICT

Lowden Holds Conference; Will Hays Called to Attend

Former Illinois Governor is Urged to Announce His Candidacy at Once; Movie Czar Not Seen at Meeting—Ford for Hoover.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, and frequently mentioned as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, conferred here today with friends advancing his interests, but no information as to his intentions was obtainable.

Those attending the conference would not commit themselves on the day's discussion. Conspicuous among the conferees was a delegation from Iowa, headed by Maj. Frank L. Lund, of Des Moines, and Clarence F. Buck, Illinois State senator. Mr. Lowden would not add to previous declaration that "no man has yet run away from the presidency."

Today's conference, however, was considered to have an important bearing upon the former Illinois executive's actions. He hurried here from his summer home near Alexandria Bay, N. Y., especially for the meeting. He said he expected to return to Alexandria Bay tomorrow.

Although it was said Will H. Hays, former chairman of the Republican national committee, had been called here for the conference, Mr. Hays could not be found.

A long friendship between Mr. Lowden and Vice President Charles G. Dawes will prevent the latter from entering the race for the Republican nomination so long as the former is a possibility, says the Daily News today. "Should the nomination come to either it would be accepted," continues the paper.

The story points out that Dawes and

NEW YORK-LONDON RADIO BEAM SYSTEM TO OPEN

High-Speed Messages to Be Sent in Facsimile, With Absolute Secrecy.

OLD CODE IS ELIMINATED

Special to The Washington Post. New York, Aug. 4.—Within a month the Radio Corporation of America will place in commercial use a high-speed directional, or "beam" system of wireless communication between this city and London.

On the basis of tests being made daily, in a comparatively short time it will render obsolete the laborious spelling out of words in the dot-and-dash signals of the Morse code.

Within three years, officials of the corporation believe, the system—first brought to public notice by the Marconi Co. in England—will link the world's leading cities with radio communication on a facsimile basis.

This means that, with virtually complete secrecy, entire messages will be tossed across the Atlantic and photographed reproduced with a speed more than ten times greater than any heretofore achieved in transmitting transoceanic photographs.

In operation requiring possibly as little as two or three minutes, the same result will be attained as if a printed page of a newspaper were torn out and shipped to England by steamship. Just as the ship would deliver the printed message only at the port for which it was intended, beam wireless, for all practical purposes, will throw its message only to the receiving station for which it is meant. It will do so at a speed equivalent to 250 words a minute or more.

Mississippi Requires New Primary Vote

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Theodore G. Bilbo, former Governor of Mississippi, will oppose Gov. Dennis Murphy in a second primary for the Mississippi gubernatorial nomination.

With one precinct missing, returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary revealed tonight: Bilbo, 128,706; Murphy, 70,704; Conner, 59,255; Anderson, 21,993. The missing precinct was believed not to have polled more than half a dozen votes.

Rail Crossing Crash Kills 3 and Injures 2

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Melias Williams, of Bearden, Tenn., and two daughters, Nadine and Ruth, were killed today when their automobile was struck by the Memphis Special, Southern Railway passenger train, at a grade crossing near here.

Mrs. Williams and another daughter were seriously injured. They were brought to a hospital here. Officers believed a heavy rain prevented the occupants of the automobile from seeing the approaching train.

MANY CANDIDACIES MAY TIE UP SESSION

Coolidge Silently Reads Ford's Indorsement of Hoover Without Expression.

(Associated Press.)

Political discussion in the National Capital yesterday turned largely from President Coolidge's announcement that he does not "choose" to run in 1928 to the prospects of the various men whose names have been put forward as eligibles for the Republican presidential nomination.

While none of them has made any declaration, Secretary Hoover, Vice President Dawes, Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois; Senator Borah, of Idaho, and Speaker Longworth were among those around whom much of the speculation centered.

Other names mentioned in the informal discussions of the politicians included those of Charles Evans Hughes, Senator Watson, of Indiana; Senator Johnson, of California, and Senator Fess, of Ohio. However, both Mr. Hughes and Senator Watson have announced they will not be in the race.

There was no small amount of speculation as to which one of the present mentioned eligibles would "inherit" the bulk of Coolidge's strength in the party organization. It was conceded, however, that it was too early and the situation too befuddled for any except the wildest sort of guesses.

Those who still adhered to the opinion that President Coolidge had left the way open for him to accept the nomination, asserted that with the field full of candidates and favorite sons there was the possibility of a deadlock which might force the leaders to turn to the President for a way out.

Action at Primaries.

While there will be much discussion of candidates and probably considerable activity among their friends during the next few months, it may be early next year, when the presidential primaries are held, before names will go down in black and white.

Sixteen States have such primaries. New Hampshire holding the first on March 13, and West Virginia the last on May 29. So far as Republican National Committee headquarters here is advised, only one of the States is a declaration of acceptance by the candidates necessary. That is in South Dakota, which holds its primary on May 22.

It was stated that in the other States Mr. Coolidge's name could be used, or candidates for election as convention delegates could declare for him without his consent. The sixteen States have a total delegate strength of 492 out of the 1,109 which will sit in the convention.

The States having primaries, the number of delegates they are entitled to in the convention and the dates of the primaries are as follows:

New Hampshire, 19, March 1; North Dakota, 13, March 20; Michigan, 33, April 2; Wisconsin, 29, April 3; Illinois, 61, April 10; Nebraska, 19, April 10; Pennsylvania, 79, April 24; Massachusetts, 39, April 24; Ohio, 51, April 24; California, 29, May 1; Maryland, 19, May 7; Indiana, 33, May 8; New Jersey, 31, May 15; Oregon, 13, May 18; South Dakota, 13, May 22; West Virginia, 11, May 29.

Silence Still Prevails.

Deadwood, S. Dak., Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Silence which promises to continue for a long period prevailed with President Coolidge again today regarding his announcement of Tuesday that he did not choose to run for President in 1928.

Taking the day off for a visit to the Frontier Days celebration here, Mr. Coolidge dropped contact with the outside world except for reading a few messages telling of the adjournment of the Geneva Naval Armaments Conference.

A dispatch of the Associated Press telling of the announcement by Henry Ford that he indorsed Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination was passed on to Mr. Coolidge before he boarded the train late today for the return to the State Game Lodge, but he read it in silence and without any change of expression.

If the President has in mind any individual whom he would prefer to succeed himself he has not given the slightest inkling of it. He has left his close associates still somewhat amazed by the suddenness and unexpectedness of his Tuesday declaration. There is a state of nerves in the summer White House camp and there are few who will do any more prophesying about what Mr. Coolidge might do.

It is admitted, however, that he is the titular head of the party and in a position to go a long way in dictating the Republican party nominee at the convention in June if he would. But there is every indication that he has said his say and is prepared to let the people have their Reno, Nev., Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The constitutionality of Nevada's three-months divorce law, enacted at the last session of the State legislature and in effect since March of this year, was upheld in a decision by the State Supreme Court today.

The law was taken to the Supreme court last month when one district judge expressed a doubt as to its validity. Nevada's former divorce law required a residence in the State of six months.

FAILURE AT GENEVA HELD REGRETTABLE, BUT NOT TRAGEDY

LEAVING OF PROBLEM TO NAVY MEN ASSAILED

Paris Newspaper Links Coolidge Announcement With Collapse of Conference.

London, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The paramount question being asked by most Englishmen regarding the failure of the Geneva conference is whether any service has been done to the cause of disarmament. Bound up with this consideration is the weighty financial one of whether the failure will lead to a renewal of naval competition and consequently to further burdens for the already heavily overburdened taxpayer. This latter point has been set out frankly by Winston Churchill in a speech to the House of Commons in public utterances during the progress of the conference.

The idea of any possible change in the friendly relations between Great Britain and the United States hardly enters the picture at all. The view is expressed universally that the decision between the two peoples is unthinkable. Thus the general expression is that while the failure of the conference is regrettable, it is not a tragedy, and that the business before both the British and American peoples now should be a further education of public opinion as to the reasons for the conference which may have a better fate.

Would Outlaw War.

Commander J. M. Kenworthy, member of parliament, pointed out to newspapermen today that the failure had occurred on the anniversary of the beginning of the great war. He said the mistake was to leave the conference almost entirely to naval experts. It is asking too much of human nature, he declared, to expect naval experts to put down navies. The commander then enlarged on his well known advocacy of the plan to outlaw war as a means of settling disputes.

Coolidge Decision Linked Up.

Paris, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—President Coolidge's decision to leave the Geneva conference on August 3 "coincides singularly with the failure of the naval conference" which he organized at Geneva, says Le Temps in a long editorial on the American executive.

"The President of the United States," says the newspaper, "had an idea he could usefully serve the general peace of the world and American interests at the same time in praising the regulation of marine armaments as a means of realizing important economies by the strict limitation of auxiliary forces, while simultaneously assuring the American Navy of absolute parity with that of Great Britain, a parity which the real needs of the security of the United States demanded."

Le Temps says that it wonders whether President Coolidge really means that he will refuse the nomination if the Republicans should insist on giving it to him.

"Either Mr. Coolidge wished to find out in what manner public opinion would desire him to run again for the Presidency," the paper says, "or he wished usefully to serve his party, which might be handicapped by the electoral campaigns by certain of the acts of his administration, such as the veto of the farm relief bill, the debt settlement conditions, the conditions of the United States established for its admission to the International Court of Justice and that he might have been in convoking the naval conference at Geneva."

Conferees Believe Powers Can Effect Cruiser Treaty

Geneva Delegates See Opportunity Now for Governments to Reach Agreement in Light of Facts and Views Revealed at Conference.

Geneva, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The text of a joint declaration of the American, British and Japanese delegations, delivered today at the plenary session of the three-power naval conference, follows:

"In pursuance of the suggestion of the plenipotentiary delegates of the President of the United States, His Britannic Majesty and His Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, met at Geneva on June 29 to consider the limitation of auxiliary naval craft.

"Meetings have been held from that date until the fourth of August, during which period the delegates and their advisers have considered in detail various methods of effecting this object. On many important questions, provisional agreements have been reached, certain of which are embodied in the establishment of the technical committee of the conference. These points of agreement relate particularly to the limitation of destroyers and submarines, and it was only when the conference took up the question of the limitation of cruiser class that difficulties were encountered.

"The difficulties proved to be of a character to render it desirable to adjourn the present negotiations until the plenipotentiary delegates have had an opportunity to give further consideration to the problem and to the various methods which have been suggested for its solution.

"The American delegates presented the view that within total tonnage limitations (maximum), initially suggested at between 250,000 and 300,000 tons in the cruiser class for the United States and the British empire and between 150,000 and 180,000 tons for Japan, the number and the type of vessels which they might consider best suited to their respective national needs would be subject to limitation of the Washington Treaty, to arm these vessels as they saw fit.

"The British delegates, while putting forward a similar proposal, have insisted on the size of vessels of all classes, have opposed the principle of limitation by total tonnage alone on the ground that the establishment of a secondary type of cruiser of a maximum calibre of 6 inches. The British delegates contended that the establishment of this type alone enable the British empire, within a moderate figure of total tonnage, to attain the numbers which it regards as indispensable to meet its special circumstances and its special needs.

"The Japanese delegates presented the view that low total tonnage levels should be fixed which would effect a real limitation of auxiliary naval vessels. As for the question of the 8-inch gun cruisers, while the Japanese government could not agree to any restriction as a matter of principle, they had no difficulty in declaring that, provided a tonnage level of 315,000 tons for auxiliary surface vessels were fixed, for Japan they would not build any further 8-inch gun cruisers until 1936, except those already authorized in existing programs.

"Various methods were considered of reconciling the divergent views indicated above, but while material progress has been made and the points of divergence reduced, no mutually acceptable plan has been found to reconcile the claims of the British empire, the United States and Japan, with the desire of Japan they would not build any further 8-inch gun cruisers until 1936, except those already authorized in existing programs.

"Faced with this difficulty, the delegates have deemed it wise to adjourn the present conference with this frank statement of their respective views, and to submit the problem for the further consideration of the plenipotentiary delegates of the plenipotentiary governments, in the hope that consultation between them may lead to an early solution.

"Further, the delegates agree to recommend to their respective governments the desirability of arranging between the plenipotentiary delegates of the Washington Treaty that the conference to be called pursuant to paragraph 2 of article 21 of that treaty should be held earlier than August, 1931, the date contemplated under the terms of that instrument, in order that the plenipotentiary delegates of the plenipotentiary governments may come into force before the capital ship construction program commences, namely, in November of that year.

"In making these recommendations and in submitting this statement of the points of agreement as well as of the points on which agreement has not yet been achieved, the delegates desire to place on record a statement of their conviction that the obstacles that have been encountered should not be accepted as terminating the effort to bring about a further limitation of naval armament. On the contrary, they trust that the measure of agreement which has been reached, as well as the work which has been done in clarifying their respective positions, will make it possible after consultation between the plenipotentiary delegates of the plenipotentiary governments to bring about a further limitation of auxiliary naval vessels.

NAVAL ARMS PARLEY ENDS ON NOTE OF FRIENDLINESS

son—was that Great Britain wanted to have the United States build about twelve 10,000-ton 8-inch gun cruisers, and virtually restrict her other cruisers to vessels of 6,000 tons with 6-inch guns. Mr. Gibson said "No" to this. He insisted—and he pointed it out in his speech today—that the United States has few naval bases and Great Britain has many.

Moreover, in his address today Mr. Gibson did not fail to call attention to the fact that Great Britain possesses immense superiority in merchant ships capable of mounting 6-inch guns in time of war. He recalled that Admiral Jellicoe, British commander at Jutland, in the greatest naval battle of modern times, had publicly admitted that converted merchantships played a great part in the World War.

America's chief delegate gently chided Mr. Bridgeman for seemingly attempting to prove that 6-inch gun cruisers are quite desirable in nature.

Mr. Bridgeman reiterated.

Mr. Bridgeman, speaking in measured tones, reiterated Great Britain's position of isolation and dependency on other countries for its food supply, a justification of the British demand for a high cruiser strength. He related to his hearers the specter of the great war when "month by month we found our rations of bread, meat and sugar being lowered and starvation slowly approaching."

Is it to be wondered," he asked, "that every one of us feel it is a duty to make what provision we can to protect ourselves and our children against a recurrence of such danger?"

The speaker affirmed that although Great Britain was carrying a heavy burden of taxation and was suffering from industrial depression, he was not a few people in Great Britain, on the whole, who demur to providing the money necessary to keep open the waterways for our foods and raw materials.

Mr. Bridgeman for his part took a little shot at America by remarking that with Britain's insistence on American reasons for demanding so many large cruisers, or so many "with such high offensive weapons as 8-inch guns."

After all the formal speeches had been made, Mr. Bridgeman gave Mr. Gibson a general compliment in commending the latter's fashion of presenting at the conference and three public meetings.

"Of course, if we had been a disorderly body, things might have been different," said Mr. Bridgeman, jokingly, "but anyway, I apologize for any trouble I may have caused you."

He then proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Gibson, which Viscount Ishii seconded. Mr. Gibson replied that the honor of presiding at the conference had been a "memorable privilege."

Then, with the tension of the session eased, Mr. Gibson pronounced adjournment.

ture the Washington Treaty to limit naval armaments in battleships, &c.

But the British, when asked to sacrifice any part of her projected program for cruisers and auxiliary craft, have refused that she must think in terms of possible future war and provide for every conceivable emergency. In other words, no British statesman has ever agreed to sacrifice anything which might jeopardize British interests and, it is suggested, no British statesman ever will. As the British themselves explain it, he would no longer be a statesman if he did.

U. S. Limits Its Sacrifice.

At the Washington conference America made the greatest sacrifice and the signatory powers all wanted to achieve the same object, and a formula was readily found whereby all the powers could agree to limit capital ships without any weakening of their standing toward the other powers.

At Geneva it was impossible to find a formula which permitted limitation of cruisers and auxiliary craft, and the part of either Great Britain or the United States. America, having made her sacrifice at Washington, refused to make a further sacrifice at Geneva.

Mr. Gibson's statement briefly reviews President Coolidge's invitation to the Geneva conference of February 10 last, the acceptance of Great Britain and Japan of the American proposal for a limitation of naval armaments.

The first obstacle cited by Mr. Gibson was Britain's demand for "a considerably larger number of cruisers than it now possesses." A total of 70 cruisers, instead of 48 now in service of the British empire, was defended on the ground of "absolute naval needs." This appeared to the American delegation as an expansion rather than a limitation of naval armaments.

American Position Defended.

"Further," Mr. Gibson says, "we have not yet been able to persuade them, in a time of profound peace and at the moment that we are seeking to reduce the burdens of naval expenditure, the British government considers that it is an absolute and even a vital necessity."

Mr. Gibson then cites America's efforts to meet the views of the British delegation, the readiness to increase total tonnage, to discuss limitation of 10,000-ton cruisers. But the British wanted small cruisers, and the United States would bind the United States to build this type of craft despite American objection that lack of naval bases, &c., would make these vessels of little defensive value to the United States.

"The immediate and obvious result of acquiescing in these British proposals," Mr. Gibson says, "would have been that the British empire would have been able to build exactly what it wanted, on the one hand, and on the other hand, would be restrained from building what we consider that we might need and yet the tonnage levels insisted on by the British Empire would result in a substantial increase even over present strength."

Britain's 885,000 tons of fast merchant ships capable of being readily converted into cruisers on a 6-inch gun basis are cited by Mr. Gibson in connection with Britain's insistence that American cruisers be not armed with heavier weapons, excepting in special cases and on the question of economy, Mr. Gibson says the American proposal for low tonnage limitation means a very large saving to the United States.

Can Not Reconcile Assent.

"I can not but feel," Mr. Gibson adds, "that the British government has an 'unpleasant' apprehension as to what might be made by the United States of reasonable freedom of action in the cruiser class within strict tonnage limitations."

After referring to recent British statements that war between the British Empire and the United States is already outlived in the hearts of both nations, Mr. Gibson says:

"We find it difficult, however, to reconcile the British conviction that war is already outlived between us with their present unwillingness to recognize our right to build a limited number of the type of ships we would desire or with their willingness to risk the success of this conference by their fear of the problematical possession by us during the life of this treaty of a small number of 8-inch gun cruisers and this spite of the fact that any apprehension which might be occasioned by such problematical construction is amply offset by the political clause which offers a release from the obligation of the treaty."

Secretary Kellogg's statement, given out here yesterday, is as follows:

Statement of Mr. Kellogg.

"I regret, of course, that the Geneva conference did not succeed in making an agreement for limitation of naval armaments. The conference was suggested by the President in the hope that he could accomplish a real reduction in building programs. He also believed if the three great naval powers could succeed in such limitation it would prevent competitive building, lift enormous burdens from the countries involved, and be a great moral example to the world. We believed that there was no condition today which could threaten the security of the powers interested, or justify increased building programs."

PART IN BIG PARADE15,000 People Rehearse Days of '76; Extra Caution Had to Safeguard Executive.By CARLISLE BARGERON.
(Staff Correspondent of The Post.)Deadwood, S. Dak., Aug. 4.—The vanishing West retraced its steps for President Coolidge today. And so far as this little abandoned mining village is concerned it did not have to go back far.People of the West have come to resent the suggestion of the East that they are wild and they have a right to do so, but certainly there are none of them who will deny that Deadwood itself is not wild. Only an impelling urge for gold could have brought men—and women—back in '76 and just what holds the few remaining now is something unknown.The President's train rolled and wended up over the hills, going through tunnels with the regularity which a street car makes stops. It ran slow and cautiously, plying its smoky way between the pine clad hills with profound thought of its responsible load.
The Secret Service had considered it to be by far the most dangerous trip which the President has taken out here.
The train, it is said, has a way of jumping the tracks but it did not do so today and the Burlington Railroad officials threw up their hands in high glie.Engine Put at Other End.At a little town outside of Deadwood the train was stopped and the engine moved around to the rear because there is not room in the gulch around which Deadwood is built for it to perform such a maneuver and inasmuch as the train had to come back the engine must needs get on the other end at the only opportunity it had.Deadwood has been preparing for months for this celebration—that of the days of '76—but it did not have much preparing to do. In the half century that has passed since Deadwood did not belie its name, good and law-abiding folks have come to inhabit it.
But the topography of it can never be changed, not by mere man. There is only one street in the town which can and does run three blocks without going almost straight up or straight down. Automobile owners, at least so far as this reporter has seen, must always run their cars in first or second gear, because they are always either climbing a steep hill or coming down one.And finally at the end of such an up and down life when one of the townspeople dies he must needs be carried straight up to a high summit to Mount Moriah Cemetery, from which if the hearse ever broke loose his corpse would literally be his remains instead of his body. It was up here that they carried old Wild Bill Hickok when slinking sneak back in '76, shot him in the back. It was only in this man-ner that Wild Bill could have been killed, for his quickness on the trigger was known all over these hills. One time, in fact, Bill was drinking at the bar of Number Ten Saloon when a would-be assailant came in. Wild Bill never took the glass from his lips, but simply shot three times over his shoulder without batting an eyelash; and that was the last of Wild Bill's would-be assailant.Made Fine Looking Corpse.But when he finally was killed and they laid him away high atop the mountain that overlooks the town the village news chronicler of that day was moved to observe that he "certainly made a fine looking corpse." And he did. Wild Bill had cold steel blue eyes and "flowing" hair and a flowing moustache and he was a man that the women liked and a good fellow withal.
Years after they had buried him they placed his little monumental likeness over his grave. Then the tourists came and whacked off part of his nose and one foot has gone into the ground so that the marble image of him is a grotesque looking thing. And right beside him sleeps Calamity Jane, a femist of the day when women were still in the homes. Only a plain slab marks her grave but Custer's men could tell you a lot about her and they would do so in sympathetic vein.One survivor of the days of '76 was present to greet the President today.
He was Deadwood Dick whose name has been heralded far and wide in the dime novels. But Deadwood looked so tame, now in his ebging years. He was given a day off from his job as caretaker of the municipal tourist camp, paying $40 a month, and a discerning old-timer had this observation to make.Men Let Their Whiskers Grow.But as said before Deadwood did do a little thing for this visit of the President. For one thing all of its men for the last three months have been letting their whiskers grow and today it seemed as if there was not a barber shop within 100 miles. Another thing, they put log fronts on all of the business places and the residences so that the shot town of less than 3,000 looked just as it did in '76. There was really no need of this. It would have looked picture-que enough anyway.They had a set program for the President's entertainment, out in the ball park, but that was something rehearsed for weeks and months. TheIndians, too, amid much ceremony took the President into their tribe and proclaimed him to be chieftain of all their kind. Of that there will be more anon but the town itself and being itself was a sight to be seen.Down in that section that used to be known as Chinatown where the ladies of the evening used to shriek infectious at the Salvation Army there was dancing and merry making tonight and when the trombones and the banjos loosed their melody there seemed to be little difference from 50 years ago. At the Bloody Bucket where men used to come in from the hills and give their gold dust to the bartender and set about to be themselves there was a graphophone which suggested that one was out Northwest Fourteenth street way in Washington.Scenery a Bowl of Nature.Now as to the place where the main ceremonies were held today. It appears that Mother Nature, hundreds of years ago must have foreseen that the President would come here some day so in order not to make him uncomfortable it cut in a wide pocket in the hills and mere men came along later and made a fair grounds or ball park of it. No kid can ever look over the fence, but it rises up some 1,000 feet on all sides, a symphony of crags of pines and spruces and red clay.There were approximately 15,000 people crowded in this natural bowl and they gave the President the most enthusiastic reception he has yet received out here. And he is not the candidate Coolidge now, but simply the President.The Fourth Cavalry, which has been protecting these people ever since the time when it tried to keep the white people out without success and finally gave it up as a bad job and came to stand instead between the settlers and Indians, was the first in the line of parade. Then came the Indians and the characters of '76. Deadwood Dick was the only one who played his own part. If the girl who took the role of Calamity Jane was true to the portrait then this wildfire on the days bygone was quite capable of disrupting the morale of the soldiery. Today she was a round little brunette with cold black eyes and a smile that seemed to this reporter to suggest a watermelon though why she did so he can not just explain.There were covered wagons galore, of course, but the "us Westerners," as the President's party now calls itself, thinking nothing of that.Just 3 miles away and in such a manner that the two towns virtually merge, is Lead, exactly one mile high.
Lead is still a live mining town, a place where modern machinery has supplanted the hand process and the only way in which mining can now be made to pay. Lead has a polyglot population but is as clean as a new sheet. Nevertheless, it was the thought of Lead that the secret service took precautions against possible Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations.There seemed to be little of Lead over here, though. The townspeople in their picturesque costume and appearance might well have been those folk who sought to get rich in '76.The Indians, 400 of them, came to stand in front of the President for the all-important ceremony of inducting him into the tribe.
The President and Mrs. Coolidge went out to stand among them, the President attired in a blue business suit and a straw hat and Mrs. Coolidge in a white sport dress with red flowered border, red flowered jacket and red picture hat. Standing Bear, a full blooded Sioux, his face almost pale beneath the red, stood beside him, his stature lifted to its full proud height.
Rosebud Yellowrobe, billed on the program as the "most beautiful Indian maiden in the world," and she is nearly that, made a lot of courtesies and gestures and then put a bonnet with countless feathers on the President's head. He grinned broadly, Mrs. Coolidge laughed and the crowd roared.The Klan Initiation.There was a lot of mystic stuff out there and then all the Indians held up their right hands, palm outstretched, and the President did likewise. In a way it was something like a Ku Klux Klan initiation.The great majority of the red skins stood around expressionless, their withered faces smeared with paint and chalk.
It was duly announced by the announcer that the President was the only one ever to be thus honored by the announcer explained that the all that was happening was the fever-

LEVINE AND DROUHIN CLOSER TO AGREEMENT

Time for Posting Aviator's Insurance Money Remains to Be Settled.

COLUMBIA MEETS TEST

Paris, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—Some progress was made today in the task of patching up the differences between Charles A. Levine, owner of the transatlantic plane Columbia, and Maurice Drouhin, French aviator, whom Levine engaged to pilot the ship on a return flight to the United States.

Their lawyers met today to discuss the service of a summons on Levine last night by Drouhin demanding that Levine carry out his agreement with the pilot as to financial arrangements.

The lawyers reached no final agreement, but said a new contract might be agreed upon tomorrow.

Levine's answer to the summons that he would deposit the 300,000 francs insurance fund for Drouhin's family was followed today by a more optimistic note in the Drouhin camp. The French aviator took the Columbia up for a gasoline consumption test, and it was found that the same motor that took the airplane from New York to Germany consumes 5 per cent less fuel.

The question remaining to be settled is just when the 300,000 francs is to be deposited. Drouhin's lawyer demands that this be done at once, since everything is ready for the flight, with the exception of a lost test. Levine's lawyer is understood thus far to have avoided setting a definite time, although giving assurance that Levine was in accord with Drouhin on this point.

OHIO GUARD OFFICERS SENT TO COAL ZONES

Reputed Motives Behind the Shooting of Mine President Found to Vary.

DONAHEY AWAITS CHIEFS

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 4 (A.P.).—While Gov. Donahey today awaited action of coal operators and union miners of the Central Competitive Field on his proposal of a resumption of their wage-scale conference, Ohio National Guard officers were dispatched as permanent observers to the scenes of the recent disorders in five counties.

A flurry caused at the capitol early in the day over the murder in Athens County of P. J. Mera, president of the Lick Run mine, Nelsonville, was quieted tonight when the governor's office was informed by Maj. John Edwards, stationed in Athens County, that the shooting was a "domestic affair."

"It is commonly accepted here, and it is my belief, that the killing of Mera by his son-in-law, James McManaway, grew out of a domestic quarrel," Maj. Edwards reported.

The governor's office was informed, however, that McManaway had been active among union miners, opposing his father-in-law.

After suggesting that the proposed wage conference be held in Toledo on August 15 at the National Guard Armory, Gov. Donahey, at his summer cottage on Indian Lake, adopted a policy of waiting. Up to the time his office closed tonight no word had been received from either John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, or Rice Miller, chairman of the central field operators, who were urged by him to resume the conference which ended in a deadlock at Miami, Fla., several months ago.

At that time no word had been received from Gov. F. I. Jackson of Indiana, Len F. Connel of Illinois or John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania that they had followed his lead.

Acosta will fly a class A, designed for planes carrying two or more passengers. His companions will be Thomas Mulroy, chief engineer of Byrd's North Pole expedition and transatlantic flight, and Charles McLean, New York newspaper man.

REDCOUNT RATE CUT
GIVES BONDS STRENGTH

FOREIGN LIST IMPROVES

New York, Aug. 4 (Associated Press).—The bond market today anticipated the reduction from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's discount rate with an exhibition of strength such as has not been seen since last spring. The volume of transaction was unusually heavy for a summer day's session. Totaling well over $100,000,000, the buying movement embraced bonds of all classes, but high-grade railroad issues and the lower-grade mortgage securities encountered the greater demand.

Numerous new peaks were recorded in the railway division, with advances ranging up to a point or more. Chesapeake & Delaware Canal, selling as high as 98 1/2, while Union Pacific 4 1/2s, Burlington 4 1/2s and several of the low-priced St. Paul issues also attained their best figures of the year.

Convertible bonds were again active, gained stimulation from strength of the stock and crossed to a new record high. Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1/2s climbed 3 points to 121.

After an Avenue adjustment 5, which had been advanced on expectations of a range, soon encountered realizing around 50 and lost ground.

United States Government bonds were firm, with chief interest issues in the Liberty 4 1/2s and Treasury 3 1/2s.

Trading in the foreign group was well distributed, and prices of the bonds were accumulated rather freely, and Budapest 6s were particularly active on an ascending scale.

NATIONALS TRIUMPH OVER BROWNS IN 2 GAMES; VOIGT CLEARED DESPITE CHARGES OF D. C. BOY

against Voigt and whose testimony was flatly discounted in the official ruling of the national body.

The members of the specially-formed eligibility committee of the District of Columbia Golf Association who hoped to bar Voigt from amateur ranks, on charges which Voigt declares were based on hearsay and inference are Mason, Congressional Club, chairman; Chasman, Columbian Country Club; McGlenahan, Washington Golf and Country Club; Thompson, Chevy Chase Club, and Steinmetz, Town and Country Club.

They were defeated, these gentlemen, who failed to take into consideration the unwavering fairness of the United States Golf Association, which disregarded the stations in life of the accusers and accused and absolved George Voigt of all charges of violating the rules of the United States Golf Association, golf's controlling body to which the District association is lineally subordinate.

The history of the Voigt case can be briefly told. The District committee, specially formed to investigate Voigt's status, made public specific charges against Voigt, but there were veiled accusations that Voigt, as assistant secretary to Edward B. McLean, was devoting too much time to golf and too little to his employment, which Voigt's friends characterized as the personal concern of Voigt and his employer, and then only. There was also the blanket charge that Voigt had "acted in a manner detrimental to the best interest and true spirit of the game."

The vindication of Voigt by the United States Golf Association was complete and in effect a direct disavowal of the actions of the local eligibility committee in preferring the charges against Voigt. Mr. Ramsey, in his statement of absolute disavowal that "in testing the case of the rules of the amateur code, there has been no violation by Mr. Voigt."

Mr. Ramsey added that "it is not the opinion of the committee that Mr. Voigt has acted in a manner detrimental to the best interest and true spirit of the game."

2 D. C. Golfers Remain in Tourney

Burrows and Miller Survive 2 Rounds in Muny Event.

Burton Carries Match to 19th Hole Before Losing Verdict.

Special to The Washington Post.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 4.—Bradley C. Burrows, youthful poultry dealer, and John R. Miller, veteran plate engraver in the United States Bureau of Engraving, survived the first two rounds of match play in the national public links golf tournament today and will continue their quest for the title tomorrow.

Others still in the running are Carl Kaufmann, Pittsburgh; Edward Curtin, Newark; Kendall Morrison, St. Joseph, Mo.; Frank Brock, St. Paul; William Serrick, New York, and Robert Wingate, Jacksonville, Fla.

The prime feat of the day went to the 20-year-old Burrows. After disposing of H. R. Wilson, of Kansas City, 1 up on the nineteenth hole, he rallied after a bad start to eliminate the most feared man in the tournament, Dick Walsh, of New York, 1 up. Walsh was the runner-up in 1922 and champion in 1923, and in the first round today put out Carmen Bill, of Cleveland, star of the qualifying rounds.

With the passing of Walsh went one of the smartest golfers in the tournament. Unlike the general run of public linksmen, Walsh studies every shot carefully and takes no snap judgment on those rolling greens. But in young Burrows he encountered an opponent who simply would not give up, even after Walsh had played five one-put greens in a row from the third to the seventh.

Burrows won two of those holes himself, the third and fourth, by hitting long putts for birdies and squaring the match. They halved the fifth, and Walsh went 1 up when he laid his tee shot 30 inches from the pin on No. 6. New York's champion, who next with a great chip and a four-foot putt and then Burrows started.

He won the next four holes in a row, two of them with birdies, his short pitch to the green in the eighth, and the pin and bounding off a foot. Burrows took 2 getting out of a trap on No. 15, and then he and Walsh were in a four to finish on the home green.

Miller had an easy time eliminating George Thomas, of Chicago, 5 and 3, in his opening match and gave Johnny Florio, of Columbus, a pasting in the second match, 6 and 5.

The Columbus youth was outclassed by the 38-year-old Washington engraver who was out in 36, which is one more than Robert E. Burton, the other Washington entry, was dropped out of the title hunt by Robert E. Wingate, of Jacksonville, Fla., in the first round, 1 up, on the nineteenth hole.

Cleveland, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Favorite at medal sent fell rapidly in the first two match rounds of the national public links golf championships at Ridgewood Club today. Carl Kaufmann, of Pittsburgh, being the only one of this clique to survive. He won by the narrow margin of 2 up in the second round from I. R. Davis, of St. Louis, after an easy victory in the morning over George Joyce, of Philadelphia.

In first of the holes to fall was Clark Morse, of St. Louis, the 17-year-old lad who won the gold medal in the elimination rounds with 78-78-149. He lost in the initial match of the day to W. J. Palmer, of Baltimore, 2 and 1.

His conqueror fell later before Kendall Morrison, of St. Joseph, Mo., after finishing square with R. A. Bowker, of Chicago, in the first round, on the latter's protest of an offense by a caddy, won by decision of the committee, 4 and 3.

Morrison was the only Western contender to survive, except Frank Brock, CONTINUED ON PAGE 14, COLUMN 8.

Ruth Now 10 Homers Back of His 1921 Pace

New York, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—The heavy artillery of Col. Jacob Ruppert was allayed today by one Owen Carroll, of the Tigers, causing Babe Ruth to lose more ground in his race for home run honors.

Ruth dropped to ten runs behind his banner 1921 year. He didn't connect safely, but his mate, Lou Gehrig, who is tied with 37 homers for the season, got a double and single in New York's five hits, the two-bagger falling to go for a homer by inches.

SPEAKER FAILS IN ATTEMPT TO STEAL HOME

The play was close, but Elam Vangilder, pitcher of the Browns, wheeled and threw to Catcher Wally Schang in time to beat Speaker to the plate when the Washington veteran essayed a steal of home in the first game. Schang is seen tagging Speaker, with Ruel at bat, and Umpire Ormsby viewing the play.

Carroll Grants Only 5 Hits; Ruether Is Pounded.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Detroit made it two out of three in the current series with the Yankees by a victory today, 6 to 2. Owen Carroll, corner Holy Cross star, yielded only five hits to the New York sluggers. Ruether suffered his third defeat of the season. He was hit freely and knocked out of the box in the ninth.

Ban Johnson's boys' day was observed and the championship contest was preceded by a game between two teams of boys managed by Babe Ruth and George Moriarty. The attendance, exclusive of several thousand small boys who were guests of the Yankees, was about 20,000.

TENNIS HUNTER AT TENNIS FINALS

Singles Title At Stake Today

Mrs. Mallory Meets Miss Jacobs for Women's Title.

Williams-White Team Enters Doubles Finals.

SEBRIGHT, N. J. Aug. 4 (A.P.)—The cannon ball strokes of big Bill Tilden and the bullet of Frank T. Hunter today carried the pair to the final round of the men's singles in the annual lawn tennis tournament here.

Still more formidable when paired together, the two also gained the final round in doubles and were destined to add the coveted Seabright tandem bowl to the doubles championship of England, which they won in their tour of Europe earlier this season.

In the singles final today, Tilden did not need to extend himself to defeat George Lott of Chicago, but Hunter, caught a tartar in Fritz Mercier, of Bethlehem, Pa. Tilden won in straight sets 6-2, 6-4, to remove the strain of a defeat by Lott in Florida early in the spring, but Hunter was carried to deuce and needed all his forehand drive power to win by 7-5, 3-6, 6-2.

Only a few minutes later Tilden and Hunter won their semifinal match from Louis Thalhimer, one of the country's leading doubles players, and Charles S. Garland, a seasoned veteran of Davis Cup play. The score was 6-2, 6-3.

Swinging his racket languidly and looking more a spectator than a player except when the ball was bounded his way, Tilden allowed Hunter to carry the brunt of the work. Hunter, who hopes for pairing with Tilden in doubles on the Davis Cup team largely depended on his showing here, was more than willing and won the bulk of the points with his swiftly dropping drives.

In the other doubles semifinal an prospective Davis Cup pair, out of B. Morris Williams, now teamed with Lewis N. White, gave promise of making things hot for the Tilden-Hunter combination by defeating the young Californian, John Doe, and Arnold W. Jones, of Providence. The score was 6-4, 7-5.

Semifinals women's singles saw easy victories for the favorites, Miss Helen Jacobs, of California, and Mrs. Mollie Mallory, the national champion. Miss Jacobs defeated Miss Eleanor Goss, third ranking player in the country, 6-2, 6-2. Mrs. Mallory outperformed Mrs. A. Edgely in a close match, 6-3, 6-2.

The final between Tilden and Hunter for the singles bowl will be fought out tomorrow. The women's doubles final will be played immediately afterward. The final in women's singles, men's doubles and mixed doubles will be played on Saturday.

Major double. Two more were scored in the sixth when Gossie walked. This singled, Bluge walked, Gossie singled, and when Bluge scored on a double, Bluge in which Reeves reached second.

Five successive runs were scored by Washington in the seventh and eighth with Gossie walking, Bluge in a position to be relieved but he wasn't and Washington scored five runs. Bluge was his hard but when necessary he served up some slow balls that were difficult to hit.

Bluge's performance in the first game ought to dispel all doubt that he isn't a good pitcher still. He acted a tantalizing, step curve that was lifted high in the air for the most part without serious damage. None of the four Browns who hit safely made more than one hit.

Washington took a one-run lead in the first inning of the second game when Speaker's triple scored Rice and Vandiller walked sufficiently to allow Bluge to force one run over with a pass to Judge in the third and another scored on Gossie's long sacrifice fly.

To the fourth and double and moved on Bluge's double and Bluge advanced to third on Reeves' bunt. Bluge bunted perfectly on the "square" play and Bluge scored the second run of the inning.

U. S. AMATEUR TITLE NOW GOAL OF VOIGT

Association declaring me eligible to play in the national amateur championship and also finding me not guilty of any action detrimental to the best interests of golf. It has been the height of my ambition to qualify in a national amateur event and I had hoped that with steady improvement in my game I would be able this year to fulfill that ambition.

"I shall certainly do my best at Minneapolis to reflect credit on the District in every way and if I am fortunate enough to qualify, I will endeavor to climb as far up the ladder in my match play rounds as it may be possible for me to get.

"As for the investigation I have never feared the outcome, provided that it was conducted in a fair and impartial body like the United States Golf Association, which would not be influenced by local jealousies and personal considerations. I felt from the very beginning that my case was handled here by prejudice and bias and I think that the manner in which the local investigation was handled demonstrates this fact.

"While it is true that I was invited to appear before the committee it is also true that at no time was I allowed to know what was being said or done against me. Hearsay evidence of the most unsubstantiated character was accepted without any opportunity being afforded me to confront the witnesses who brought their stories to the committee. In addition to this, many of the findings of the eligibility committee would have been shown to have been without foundation if an effort to learn the truth had been made.

"However, I feel that the vindication given me by the United States Golf Association, after an exhaustive and fair inquiry by one of its officials, is sufficient answer to the attempt to discredit me.

"I might add that at no time were any formal charges ever made against me nor was it ever shown that I had violated in any particular the rules of the United States Golf Association governing amateur definition.

"To the friends who have stood by me so loyally while the proceedings against me were in progress I want to return my grateful thanks and I give them my assurance that they will never have occasion to regret their action."

Sarazen Is Retired, Due to Mean Temper
Sarazog, N. Y., Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's Sarazen, once rated as one of the best golfers in the United States, has been retired forever. Sarazen will be sent to Philadelphia to graze on J. E. Widener's farm.

As a 2-year-old Sarazen cost Mrs. Vanderbilt $60,000. He never was defeated as a 2-year-old. Three years the horse had developed a mean temper. At times he would show some of the old-time speed. Then he would balk, pin back his ears and refuse to extend himself.

to govern amateur golf throughout the country fairly and without consideration of petty and personal prejudices is in bold contrast to the decision of the District of Columbia Golf Association's eligibility committee, which cast about for excuses which it thought would be sufficient to bar Voigt from amateur competition, overlooking the formality of proving these charges.

The last of Secretary Ramsey's statement of exonerated, as seen to the Associated Press, follows:

"The committee has examined the circumstances in Mr. Voigt's case, said a statement by Secretary Ramsey, which defined the term 'amateur,' and as a result of its investigation finds that, tested by the rules above mentioned, there has been no violation by Mr. Voigt.

"It is not the opinion of the committee that Mr. Voigt has acted in a manner detrimental to the best interests and true spirit of the game. In his condition, the entry of Mr. Voigt for the amateur championship has been accepted."

An amateur, it was explained, is one who has not carried clubs for hire after attaining the age of 16 years; has not received any consideration, directly or indirectly for playing or teaching the game; nor, because of his skill as a golfer, received any remuneration since December 31, 1925, from any firm or person in goods relating to the playing of the game; or played for a money prize in any competition.

Attention was also directed to rulings constituting forfeiture of amateur standing, lending one's name or likeness for the advertisement or sale of anything except as a dealer, manufacturer or inventor thereof in the usual course of business, or permitting one's name to be advertised or published for pay as the author of books or articles on golf of which one is not actually the author.

Members of Committee Await Executive Action

The members of the District of Columbia Golf Association's eligibility committee who were reached last night following the acceptance of George Voigt's entry for the national amateur tournament by the U. S. G. A. were unwilling to talk at length on the action of the national association.

"I have nothing to say," was the remark of Mason, the chairman of the committee. "The responsibility is with the executive committee of the District Golf Association, which approved our findings."

"I have no comment to make," was the laconic assertion of Chasmar, a member of the committee. "We put the case up to the District Golf Association and then we were through with it."

Miller B. Stevinson, who said that he had appeared before the committee to testify against Voigt because he had been invited to do so, also said that he had nothing to say.

Thompson, another member of the committee, was the only one who said that he was glad to hear the news and added that it would seem to be only just for the District Association to recall its action.

The officers of the District Association when informed of the outcome of the case were positive in declaring that they had acted favorably, because they believed that the eligibility committee had made a thorough inquiry. "That committee," said Dr. Barr, the secretary of the association, "was supposed to deliver into all the facts and we know that they had been at work for months. We simply approved the action of the eligibility committee which had conducted the inquiry."

Regarding the future action of the District Association, President Steinem said last night that if the decision of the United States Golf Association was officially communicated to the local body he would call a meeting of the executive committee for such action as it thought proper. "We can not, of course, act upon newspaper reports," he added, and concluded by saying that he had no further comment to make upon the case.

Cincinnati, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, today spiked renewed reports that he would retire from baseball at the end of the present season by declaring he would not quit until 1928.

REVOKING OF PERMIT IS EFFECTIVE WEAPON TO CONTROL TRAFFIC

Often Reforms Bad Drivers and Removes Menace to Public in Streets.

NEW LAW ALLOWS SUSPENSION AT ONCE

Half of 900 Cases Last Year Resulting in Cancellations Were for Drunkenness.

The revocation of permits has proved the most effective means yet devised for the enforcement of traffic laws, in the opinion of traffic officials. Although there may be doubt as to the corrective powers of fines, by which guilty drivers may purchase, at prices stated by the court, redemption for their offenses, there is evidence that the revocation of their permits has reformed many bad drivers.

During the last fiscal year approximately 900 permits were revoked for various offenses, and about 300 permits were restored.

That permits are in the majority of cases not canceled permanently does not impair the power of the weapon. Officials are of the opinion that revocation within ten days after an offense is committed, as allowed under the new law, has been a power for the promotion of safety, and the reduction of traffic casualties.

Trial First Under Old Law.

Under the old law, permits could not be suspended pending trial, as now. If the offender demanded jury trial, which usually happened, he was in effect permitted to go free, and still be a menace in the streets. It frequently occurred that traffic offenders were involved in two and three serious accidents, for which they usually were to blame, while the revocation of their permits was awaiting a jury trial for a previous traffic crime.

The new system eliminates the menace by immediate suspension, although the law allows the person whose permit has been suspended pending trial an appeal.

The immediate suspension of permits has not only made the streets safer for others, but has had the effect of keeping the drivers themselves out of trouble, or preventing their injury or possible death.

As a rule there is nothing that could do a bad driver more good, officials say, than to revoke his permit. It is an excellent tonic. It makes him pause. It brings questions to him, and, as a rule, he has no firm ground on which he can stand except that of self reproach.

Extravagant Pleas Presented.

Traffic officials have had many unusual experiences with the revocation of permits. They will sometimes receive the most extravagant plea from a driver for the return of a permit. He will state that the happiness of his home, and therefore his very life and existence, is dependent upon its return. Then a few hours later his wife will call up and thank the traffic office for revoking her husband's permit and request that it be not returned to him. Traffic officials have often had it happen that a driver will come in with a lawyer and a whole retinue of friends, all importunately imploring the return of the permit. Traffic officials have found that bad drivers are no more popular in their homes, whose occupants have to ride behind them, than they are amongst strangers in the streets.

Only a small minority of drivers are really bad, and the majority are responsible for a surprisingly large percentage of traffic casualties. In many cases they are criminally bad. In other cases they are the reckless, thoughtless class in whom caution for themselves never had any meaning and who absolutely are incapable of consideration for others.

Criminal Drivers Outlawed.

The criminally bad drivers usually have to be outlawed from the streets, and the only way to do that is to cancel their permits. The thoughtless, well-meaning, reckless type can sometimes be brought to realize his responsibility to others, and the revocation of his permit has proved the most effective means.

If the number of traffic killings is ever to be checked, if there is ever to be established a semblance of safety in the streets, and if not personal wish, must have first say.

The law must rule the streets, and not personal wish or convenience. Drivers who deliberately commit offenses for which it has been necessary to revoke their permits ought to acknowledge that the public, whom they have endangered, has first say as to when they shall again permit themselves to be endangered by dangerous drivers.

Courts have ruled that permission to drive motor vehicles on the streets is a privilege, not a property. The authority that grants the permit may revoke it. The law simply says that "you were given permission to drive a machine, which is by nature swift, on the highways, and you have proved yourself unsafe with such a machine, and therefore incompetent to drive it, and you shall therefore not be permitted to drive this machine again on the highways for so long a period of time."

That is not a penalty of the "eye for an eye, and tooth for a tooth" kind. Perhaps that is the reason it is effective. That is the reason the offender has no straws of vengeance with which his soul may build a personal extenuation. He has no ground to stand on but self reproach. When justice so obvious speaks there is nothing tenable left to be said.

When Permits Are Revoked.

Permits are revoked for first offense, driving while drunk; first offense, leaving after colliding; second offense, reckless driving, and third offense, speeding. When the driver is arrested in these cases, the permit is canceled by order, effective in ten days. The first revocations, or cancellations, are for six months. The second cancellations, always on condition that the permit has been canceled before, are for a year or more. The permits are in effect canceled, since the driver does not receive his old permit back, but must pass the regular beginner's examination, and receive a new permit.

The drunken driver is the worst menace of the street. Last year 1 person was killed and 222 persons injured in the streets of Washington by drunken drivers. And in one-half of the 900 cases in which permits were cancelled, the offense was driving while drunk. Other offenses, in order of number were leaving after colliding, reckless driving, speeding, various offenses by drivers from other jurisdictions, whose right to drive here was suspended, cases in which the driver killed a person, fraud in obtaining the permit, and a few permits were revoked in cases where the driver was mentally unfit.

Cooperation Among States.

A driver's police record is taken into consideration in cancelling a permit, although the offense for which it is cancelled is always a traffic offense.

The District and the States cooperate in the revocation of permits. If a

Safety Hint

If you intend to enjoy the scenery, let some one else take the wheel. Among the dangerous drivers which traffic officials have placed under definite index and catalogue, the "beauty gazer" commands a standard place.

Washington is a beautiful city, and the temptation is strong to let one's eyes wander across the Potomac, or dwell on alluring spots by the side of the highway. But the driver should remember that he is traveling at the rate of about 30 feet a second, and that a great many things can happen within 30 feet.

It is imperative that he keep his eyes on the road ahead of him. That should apply in all cases, whatever the brand of beauty that forms the attraction, or whether it be beauty or something else.

driver from another jurisdiction commits an offense here for which his permit should be revoked, his right to drive here is suspended and the jurisdiction is notified. His own jurisdiction cancels his permit at home. And if a driver commits an offense in another jurisdiction, resulting in his right to drive there being suspended, his permit is canceled here, upon notification from the jurisdiction. Therefore, a driver must behave himself at all times, whether at home or visiting.

Some trouble is caused local officials by drivers whose permits have been canceled here, going to Virginia and registering their cars. Obtaining Virginia tags, they again attempt to drive in the District. The District takes the stand that the revocation of the permit here is not affected by such an action. And if the driver goes to Maryland and obtains a permit he obtains it only through fraud, it is said, which justifies cancellation by the State.

TRAINING COURSES END AT THIRD CORPS CAMP

5,000 Students Complete Work; Maj. Gen. MacArthur Addresses Graduates.

"MODEL SOLDIER" CITED

First citizens' military training camps for the present season in the Third Corps area closed today, more than 5,000 students completing basic, red, white or blue courses as first, second, third and fourth year's work is designated.

Six hundred students from the District, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland at Fort Monroe, Va., began the homeward trek yesterday by special trains and boats. Fifty-five of the students graduated from the blue or final course at the camp, and are now eligible for appointment as second lieutenants in the Coast Artillery Reserve Corps. Red candidates outnumbered all others in the camp, there being 341 enrolled. Approximately 90 per cent of them were promoted to the white course. Some of them can not return next year and a few were disqualified for the higher course. All had successfully completed the basic course before reporting to Fort Monroe for training.

White course men, 122 in all, go into the final or blue course next year, and if they complete this final training period satisfactorily, will be eligible for commissions.

Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commanding the Third Corps area, made the commencement address at the graduation exercises, following a battalion review. First Sgt. Charles Hatton, an instructor at this camp, was 39 Washington boys were in training. He is termed "a model soldier" by Maj. Gen. Charles A. Sumner, chief of staff. He commended him especially in a letter to Lieut. Col. Cocheu following an inspection. Hatton was a captain during the World War.

$1,600 DIAMOND RINGS SNEAK-THIEF'S HAUL

Police Furnished With Description of Man Who Robbed Wife of Minister.

Police are seeking an unidentified colored sneak thief, charged with having stolen three diamond rings valued at more than $1,600 from the apartment of Mrs. Charles B. Austin, 1507 Thirtieth street northwest, yesterday afternoon, while she was at work in the kitchen. Mrs. Austin is the wife of the pastor of the West Washington Baptist Church. The thief was seen leaving the apartment by Mrs. Sarah S. Chapin, who occupies the apartment across the hall from the Austin home. Mrs. Chapin says that the man spoke to her as he left, to divert any suspicion that she might have had as to his presence. She gave police his description.

A platinum wedding ring lying with the others was discarded by the thief. Mrs. Austin's pocketbook, containing money, lying on a nearby table, was untouched. Likewise, an envelope containing cash was left undisturbed in a drawer of the dresser.

Another robbery reported to the police was the theft of a handbag from 2914 Twenty-sixth street northeast. The bag contained a diamond ring valued at $250 and about $6, according to its owner, Miss Lillian C. Kennedy, 34 Bunker Hill road, Mount Rainier, Md.

OVER HERE—OVER THERE—

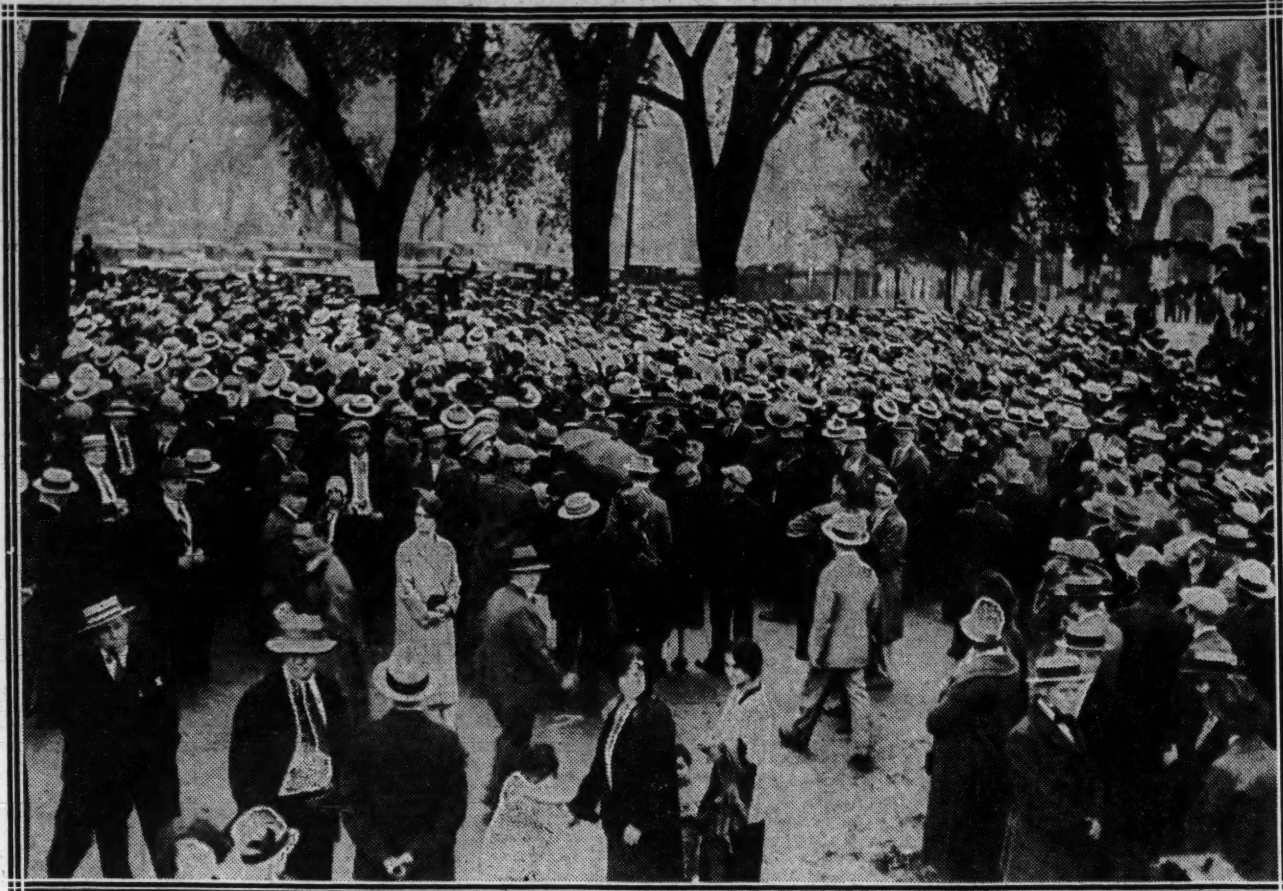

NOT LONG AFTER THE FIRST AMERICAN ENTERED THE TRENCHES IN OCTOBER, 1917, THE AUSTRIAN ARMIES WITH GERMAN REINFORCEMENTS MADE A SUCCESSFUL DRIVE AGAINST THE ITALIANS, DRIVING THEM BACK ON A 70 MILE FRONT, AND TAKING 180,000 PRISONERS. IT WAS ONE OF THE MOST DISASTROUS BATTLES OF THE WAR FOR THE ALLIES.

THE ALLIES RUSHED TROOPS TO HELP STOP THE AUSTRIAN ADVANCE AND TO BOLSTER THE MORALE OF THE ITALIAN TROOPS. THESE SOON REACHED THE TAGLIAMENTO RIVER, AND MADE A STUBBORN STAND, RETIRING TO THE WEST BANK. THE REAR GUARDS, COVERING THE STRATEGIC RETREAT, WERE CAPTURED OR DESTROYED.

THE GERMAN TROOPS RUSHED GUNS AND TROOPS TO RETREAT FAIRLY TO THE PIAVE, GIVING UP STILL MORE ITALIAN TERRITORY AND TOWNS. THE ITALIANS WERE STEADILY DRIVEN BACK IN THE MOUNTAINS AND VALLEYS BETWEEN SWITZERLAND AND THE ADRIATIC SEA. THE COMMAND PASSED TO GENERAL DIAZ.

MILITARY COUNTRY CLUB GROUND BROKEN TODAY

Two-Year Dream of Service Officers on Way to Becoming Realized.

225-ACRE TRACT TAKEN

The two-year dream of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps officers for an all-service country club will become a reality this afternoon at 5 o'clock when ground will be broken on the 225-acre tract starting the work on the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Country Club, near Fort Berry, Va.

Elaborate ceremonies have been planned and the highest ranking officials in Washington of each service will participate. Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the Army, will attempt to maneuver one of the famous Army mules hitched to a plow to turn the first soil, being assisted in the navigation by Rear Admiral Edward W. Benson, Maj. Gen. John J. Lejeune, of the Marine Corps, who arrived in town last night from a vacation.

Mascots, pride of each branch of the service, will be very much in evidence. Two Navy gulls from the Naval Academy at Annapolis were scrubbed up yesterday and will be on hand today. Several Army mules of the well-known kicking variety will be brought from Fort Myer and sent to Quantico from where they will arrive via airplane.

Admiral W. S. Benson, president of the new club, will introduce Maj. Gen. Summerall as the principal speaker. Maj. Gen. Lejeune and Admiral Eberle will also speak. Maj. Gen. Eli Helms will act as master of ceremonies, assisted by the following officers on the committee: Col. D. S. Stanley, Maj. R. M. Danford, Col. George A. Nugent, Capt. E. A. Craig, S. M. G. Lieut. W. B. Young, S. M. Maj. Cary H. Brown, Col. C. H. Conrad, Jr., Lieut. Col. W. H. Noble, Lieut. Col. F. G. Caldwell, George F. Unsmacht, and Capt. J. C. Walker.

A concert by the Marine Band has been planned and after the ceremony a dance will be held in the temporary clubhouse, which has been extensively decorated, with music by the Army Band.

Power Numberer Is Urged for Licenses

The District Commissioners yesterday received from William H. McReynolds, acting chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, a report recommending that clerks in the office of the superintendent of licenses be provided with a power-driven numbering machine with which to number automobile registration blanks, each of which contains four coupons to be numbered, instead of continuing the present cumbersome hand operation.

McReynolds said that such a machine could be obtained without cost to the District from the Bureau of Engraving and that a "head" for the machine could be bought for $15. He offered, if the Commissioners approve the recommendation, to obtain such a machine for the District. The Commissioners took the report under advisement.

CAPTAIN OF POLICE EXPLAINS HIS ORDER TO 'SHOOT TO KILL'

Stott Asserts It Applied Only to Specific Case of Murderous Bootlegger.

INVESTIGATION GREW OUT OF SLAYING CASE

Inspector Defines Differences in Cases That Sometimes Justifies Gun Play.

Police Sgt. William G. Stott at no time instructed his men by general order to "shoot to kill" motorists who endangered their lives, but confined his statement to one patrolman whose life had been jeopardized by a bootlegger's car, he declared yesterday after reports of his testimony before the police trial board had drawn the criticism of Inspector Charles A. Evans, acting superintendent of police.

Capt. Stott appeared before the board Wednesday as a witness in the trial of Policeman Benjamin R. Campbell, who was found guilty of improper use of his gun in the shooting of Larry Hall July 10.

"My statement was made in reply to a question by Attorney Lynch, asking about a conversation I had with Policeman Francis Williams, I was lieutenant at the Tenth Precinct," Capt. Stott said, "I replied I had told the officer he was within his rights in shooting a motorist who was attempting to run him down, providing it was necessary to save his life. "Lynch's question did not permit me to go into detail. I said that the policeman had stepped in the road in front of an oncoming bootlegger's car, which he had signalled to stop. He upped his bootlegging arm, waving his car in the direction of Francis, forcing him to jump for his life. It was then that I told him of these circumstances that I advised him of his rights in defending himself."

New Policemen Warned.

Inspector Evans yesterday ordered Inspector Louis J. Stoll to investigate and report to him on any "shoot to kill" order that may have been voiced by Capt. Stott.

"If Capt. Stott was correctly quoted," said Evans, "then his order was in direct conflict with the regulations embodied in the police manual, which definitely forbids a policeman to use his revolver except to protect himself when his life is in jeopardy or to protect the lives of others."

"The one thing most emphatic is laid on in training new policemen is teaching them caution in making use of their revolvers and batons."

If occupants of a motor car open fire on a pursuing policeman, or threaten to do so, I can readily excuse the officer for shooting, and when a policeman shoots to protect himself from real jeopardy headquarters will stand firmly behind him.

Difference Is Explained.

"But if Capt. Stott's instructions have been construed to direct a policeman to shoot at a motorist who was trying to crowd him off the road, an entirely different situation is presented. In such a case the policeman would need all his attention on the operation of his motorcycle or automobile to keep himself from being killed. He would have no time to shoot until after the danger had passed, when it would be an act of retribution. No policeman would shoot to kill a motorist, or what he has done, only for what he is trying to do, in circumstances imperiling the policeman's life."

Evans said that the stenographic record of the case before the trial board in which Campbell was fined $100 for shooting Hall, probably would be forwarded to the District Attorney for his information in case prosecution of Campbell should be deemed necessary.

Robert E. Lynch, attorney for Policeman Campbell yesterday made known his intention of appealing within the next ten days to the District Commissioners, from the trial board's ruling finding Campbell guilty. S. M. Hawken, who was retained by Hall's family, said he would take no action. "I don't want it to appear that I am persecuting anyone," he said.
